Baccarat Scandal.
By Cable and Associated Press.]

LONDON, June 12.—The Southern Baptist Association has passed a resolution condemning the Prince of Wales for the part he took in the baccarat scandal.

It is understood the Prince is keenly stung at the adverse press criticisms which have been showered upon him from all quarters.

The war office authorities are holding frequent conferences and dicussing the action to take in consequence of the verdtct given against Sir William Gordon Cumming. The Duke of Cambridge, Commander-in-Chief, yesterday summoned General Williams and Colonel Stacey, in command of the Fusilier Guards (Cumming's regiment), to Horse Guards, where these two officers had a long interview with the Duke.

Sir William Gordon Cumming has announced that he is willing to meet the charge of playing an illegal game of cards.

In the Commons on Monday next Stanhope, Secretary of State for War, will be questioned as to what action he intends to take in regard to the three officers, the Prince of Wales, General Williams and Lieutenant Berkeley Levett, of the Scotts Fusilier Guards who signed the document which practically allowed Cumming to remain an officer of the British army, although he was believed to have cheated at cards; and as to what action he intends to take in regard to the same army officers for having broken the army regulations requiring that such a case as that at Tranby Croft should be brought to the notice of the commanding officers.

Guatemala Affairs.
By Associated Press.]

CITY OF MEXICO, June 12.—A telegram from Guatemala states that President Barillas has caused the imprisonment of three editors. The El Popular of Guezaltenango, one of the principal towns in the upper districs of Guatemala, was seized. It appears they published an article in the paper to which Barillas took exception. The incident caused marked indignation and revolutionary talk is stronger than ever before.

Strike Ended.
By Associated Press.]

NEW YORK June 12.—About 200 striking housesmiths have returned to work, but a large number have been notified that employers are not ready to resume. If all are not at work by Monday next the strike will be resumed. The men go back to work with the understanding that nine hours will be a day's work, until January 1st, 1892, after which the eight-hour rule will prevail.

Sir William Dismissed.
By Cable and Associated Press.]

LONDON, June 12.—The official London Gazette this morning announces that the name of Sir William Gordon Cumming has been removed from the list in the army, as her majesty has no further use or occasion for his services.

Haytian Affairs.
By Associated Press.]

NEW YORK, June 12.—A Washington dispatch says: There are expectations displayed at the State and Navy Departments over the situation in Hayti. Officials are becoming impatient at the delay in receiving full and accurate reports of the condition of affairs in the black republic. Yesterday the State Department received a letter from Minister Douglass supplemental to a dispatch of the 27th of May. There were few details given, the Minister merely reiterating what he stated in his cablegram, mainly that the insurrection didn't amount to much; that it was little more than a street robbery, and not more than one or two lives lost.

Notwithstanding Dr. Douglass' temperate report, the officials of the State and Navy Departments anticipating trouble, anxiety to ascertain the exact situation, led the Department to cable Minister Douglas for full particulars. The question of closing the United States legation in Port Au Prince is being seriously considered by the Government. The letter written by Minister Firman to the special Commissioners in reply to their request for a statement of the case of Nicholson, is so unfriendly in tone that serious offense has been taken in Washington. It is understood in their reply to this letter that Minister Douglass and Admiral Gherrity expressed their dissatisfaction with the settlement of the affair and left matters in such condition that the subject can be taken up again.

The Bridge Case.
By Associated Press.]

OMAHA, June 12.—The Central National Bank, at Broken Bow, closed its doors this morning. No particulars.

In the United States Court this morning Attorney Poppleton finished his presentation of the case for plaintiffs in the Rock Island and Union Pacific bridge case. He was followed by Judge Dillon, general counsel for the Union Pacific. Dillon reviewed the contract between the roads at length and pointed out that it amounted to a lease; asserted that the Rock Island and Omaha had the Republican Valley road, a branch of the Union Pacific, and a parallel and competing line. Under the State laws it was illegal for a parallel and competing line to lease their roads or otherwise consolidate. When court adjourned at noon Judge Dillon was still talking.

Sureties on Bonds.
By Associated Press.]

Never Die Nor Resign.
By Associated Press.]

HARTFORD, June 12.—Governor Bulkley denies the rumors that he will resign and allow Lieutenant-Governor Merlin, the Republican candidate for Governor last November, to assume the gubernatoria duties.

Keystone Bank.
By Associated Press.]

NEW YORK, June 12.—The World prints this dispatch from Philadelphia: "The details of the conference that occurred on Saturday night before President Marsh's flight would cast more light upon the mystery that envelopes the affairs of the Keystone National Bank than anything yet brought out. A large sum of money was offered to Marsh and Lawrence to leave the country. The sum mentioned to your correspondent by his informant was $20,000 each and assurance of one week's start on the way to liberty. President Marsh sailed for Barbadoes on the following Wednesday under an assumed name. Lawrence, assistant cashier, declined peremptorily; he said whatever he had done had been at the direct command of Lucas and Marsh, and that he had never profited to the extent of one penny by the falsification of the books of the bank. He is already under large bail, which was furnished by his father-in-law and he did not contemplate leaving his bondsmen in the lurch; he decided to face the music and give the committee all the information in his power. John Bardsley was present at that very important interview and implored Lawrence and Marsh to go away until he could 'arrange' matters. Bardsley never appeared to have contemplated flight, but fully expected to have the bank reorganized and to come out of the entanglements safely.

Typographical Union.
By Associated Press.]

BOSTON, June 12.—At the International Typographical Union convention to-day the constitution was amended to make the President of the International Typographical Union a delegate ex-officio to the American Federation of Labor.

A proposition to co-operate with other organizations in establishing labor bureaus and labor lyceums was defeated.

The following was adopted: Employers and printers not working at the business can remain on the active membership list in the direction of subordinate unions, but they shall not be eligible for office in the international or subordinate unions.

Chinese Missions Attacked.
By Cable and Associated Press.]

LONDON, June 12.—Dispatches from Shanghai announce that attacks upon Christian missions in the interior of China continue. In one case the troops sent to repress the rioters sided with them and matters are still worse. At Takatang the lady missionaries were compelled to flee for their lives. There is great excitement among the Chinese living in the vicinity of Poyand, near Kinknand, where the ladies from Takatang had sought refuge. About the neighborhood of the lake several missions were looted and burned.

De Lesseps Declares.
By Cable and Associated Press.]

PARIS, June 12.—In an interview to-day De Lesseps declared he was not aware of any steps taken to prosecute him, or his son, or the directors of the Panama Canal Company. He asserts it would be impossible to take such a step, as all his acts in regard to the Panama Canal enterprise were legal and above board.

COMMENCEMENT.

The Closing Exercises of the University.

Yesterday afternoon witnessed the second graduating exercises of the Normal Department of the University. The class of ten members were seated on the stage together with the faculty; the light hued gowns of the young ladies amid the pretty setting of the stage formed a pleasing picture. Above the stage hung the motto of the class, "Faithful Firm and True," against a drapery of the class colors, pink and white.

Lack of space prevents the giving even an outline of the essays, but suffice it to say that all were good, well delivered and won hearty applause from the crowded house. The graduates received a wealth of flowers which were brought to them by two little boys, Bennie Evans and Herbert Jones, dressed in the picturesque costumes of pages. Those belonging to the class were Mary R. Clark, Otilia Quadri, Arda F. Van Duzer, Mary F. Lane, Grace F. Ward, Louisa Lewis, Kate F. Kinney, all of Reno; Mabel Wallace, Fresno. Cal.; Maud Truscott, Virginia; and W. C. Hancock of Sutro.

Mrs. Emory, who has had charge of the Normal classes of the University for the past year, may well feel proud of her work, the results of which were partially shown in the exercises of yesterday.

The Delsarte movements given by the First and Second Year Normals, led by Miss Lane, were exceedingly well done. In the representation of the wind, waves and seabirds, with the rythmic sweep and fall of the gestures, no words were needed to bring to mind the picture of the seashore with all the accompanying sounds.

THE CLASS OF LIBERAL ARTS.

Although the Commercial and Normal classes had awakened much interest, the Liberal Arts graduates excited even more, as this was the first class to have completed the whole University course.

At eight o'clock last evening when the exercises commenced, the Opera House was crowded and even standing room was wanting.

The first oration, "Overtaught," by Fred A. Bristol, was a protest against the teaching of those branches in colleges which were totally impractical in after life. It was very well delivered and showed thought in preparation.

"Toadyism in America" by Henry Cutting was heartily appreciated by the audience as shown by the frequent applause which greeted his criticism on the aristocracy of Europe.

The final oration, the "Genesis of Socialism," delivered by Frank Norcross was much above the average attempts of young men. In research, expression and delivery, there was little that could be criticised, and throughout it all, Mr. Norcross held the close attention of all his listeners. At its close, an abundance of flowers were brought to the three graduates, and then President Jones conferred the degree of Bachelor of Arts upon them and presented the diplomas.

The commencement address was given by the Rev. J. Fred Holmes of Carson, who departed from the usual stereotyped form of commencement addresses, and instead showed that to be a manly man and a womanly woman was the highest standard that could be taken and lived up to. Not like those who, though endowed with all that fortune can bring them, are yet false to all moral principles, but rather be one of those, no matter how lowly their station, that, having convictions of right or wrong, order each act in their life by these beliefs. Better be Brutus dead upon the Phillipian fields, yet with no stain upon his honor, than victorious Marc Antony in the arms of Cleopatra. Better honor and virtue with death, than life with dishonor and lust.

In every day life a manly man, be he a tradesman, does not put sand in his sugar, chicory in his coffee nor water in his molasses; a manly man, if he is a farmer, does not in selling wheat put just enough of No. 1 Nevada with No. 2 white to pass as all the first quality; a manly man, if he is the editor of a newspaper, publishes a clean sheet, and does not make it a retailer of petty scandals.

Take as an example of such a life, John Maynard, the Mississippi pilot, a man uneducated in the most rudimentary knowledge, who would have been entirely lost in society; and yet so true to his duty and with such love for his fellow men that he stood at his wheel while the flames of the burning boat crept nearer and nearer, until just as the boat touched the shore and all the hundreds of passengers were saved, Maynard fell to the deck a blackened corpse.

Lincoln, the rough unpolished diamond of the west, was another and most perfect manly man. Through all the turbulent years that he held the highest place in the land, and had the complicated problems with which to deal, he held the entire heart of his people. They knew no prejudice of party or section would influence him, and in every instance he would act according to his idea of right with "malice towards none and charity towards all." He lived and died true to his lights as God gave him to read.

Then with a few closing remarks to the graduates and faculty, Mr. Holmes ended an exceedingly earnest and eloquent address.

THE NEXT ATTRACTION.

A Good Company And a Good Play To Be Presented.

In commenting on the Barnes' company the San Francisco Call says:

Burton H. Barnes of New York is of course the central figure of the drama, and the character on the stage is even more liberally Americanized than in the novel. This takes with the audience, however, and so far as that goes is a point gained. All the acts of the piece have striking features—the fourth and fifth being equally vivid with the rest. Amid the lurid fire of Corsican vengeance the milder light of the love interest shines steadily between Marina Paoli and Edwin Gerard Anstruther, the avenger and her proposed victim, but both in ignorance of their relative positions. The denouement in the bridal apartments at at Danella's Villa Bocogano is well managed. The Corsican element, represented by Count Musso Danella (Mr. Sheridan Block) and Tomasso Monaldi (a bloodthirsty follower of the vendetta tradition) is held well in hand, so that the play is fairly balanced. Care is taken throughout to show the superiority of American courage and tact under all circumstances.

To be presented in Reno Monday evening, June 15th. Secure seats at Hodgkinson's drug store.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION

THE commencement exercises of the State University, that have been held for the past two days, mark that institution as worthy the respect and confidence of the people of this State. The young men and women who graduated yesterday and the day before show a careful training and tutorship that cannot be found in an institute not provided with a good faculty. Nevada is and should be proud of her University, although it has been, we think, a little top-heavy with theory, and not foundation enough upon which to build the more practical side of the affairs of every day life, but it is fast assuming shape. All new institutes of the kind generally have much to contend with, the Nevada State University being no exception to the rule, but from the scholarship, as shown by the graduates, their work speaks louder than words for the excellency of its foundation. The faculty have reason to feel proud of their work for so far as is indicated they have builded well, and if the people do not hear from some of the students who graduated yesterday the GAZETTE will be sadly disappointed.

SUPERINTENDENT BACKUS of the Gonod, Neb., Industrial school for Indian children advises against putting Indian boys at work in the fields for fear of its political effect in the coming campaign. Persons who have lived on the frontier will appreciate the opposition to Indian labor among laboring men. Yet the welfare of the race and the interests of humanity require that these boys should be taught to work and become civilized members of society. It may become necessary to scatter these words of the nation among civilized communities so that they will not arouse industrial opposition. It would also probably promote their progress, but would for awhile create strong opposition among Indian parents. That, however, would be a constantly decreasing feeling.

THE best and surest way to promote immigration to Nevada is to put the large tracts of land, which are now lying idle, in a condition to support settlers. This can only be done by bringing water to them. The success of irrigation enterprises means a rapid increase in the population of the State, and water and land cannot be brought together without first forming your irrigation district and floating your bonds So let the more progressive and wide gauged men of the State take the matter in hand and push it to success as speedily as possible.

THE Prohibitionists propose to start a course of meetings to be held at the National Prohibition Park, Staten Island, N. Y. The plan is to make the Park such an educational headquarters for temperance and general reform as Chautauqua and Ocean Grove are for church work. During the season many leading men and women of the country, aside from prominent Prohibitionists and reformers will deliver addresses.

AN American firm which for years has been dealing in tin-roofing plate manufactured in Wales announces in a circular that it has begun the manufacture and will supply thk trade with American plate. It offers its goods with the same garantees as it gave the Welsh plate. This is another nut for those to crack who pooh-pooh the American tin industry.

A CALIFORNIA Democratic contemporary talks about developing a home market for California natural products. This is flat treason to Democratic principles, which enjoin that the more distant market is the best, especially for the buyer.

THE English make the boast that they have one law for prince and commoner. It remains to be seen whether their military affairs are managed on the same principle.

A RUGGED OLD BELLMAN.

For Twenty-Four Years He Has Tolled the Funeral Bell.

An Odd Character Who Is Well Known to the Citizens of the Empire City and Surroundings—A Blizzard Reminiscence.

No figure is more familiar to the undertakers of New York, Brooklyn, Jersey City and the towns for miles around than the short, stout form of Patrick Laffay, whose duty it is to toll the bell as funeral processions are entering Greenwood cemetery. For nearly a quarter of a century Patrick has performed this mournful task, and a more faithful bellman never tolled a bell, whether it be in the tower of a cemetery archway or in a modest church or stately cathedral. In twenty-four years he has missed but a few days from his post of duty, and then only because of sickness or death in his own family.

A New York Sun reporter found the rugged bellman on a recent afternoon on duty under the arched gateway. It was cold and blustering, and Patrick's sturdy frame was warmly bundled up. The reporter had hardly made known his errand when Patrick espied a funeral procession about to enter the Fifth avenue gateway. A few strides brought him to the tower. He gave the rope a pull and the bronze bell announced the arrival of another funeral train. Then he opened a little door and pressed a lever, thus setting in motion some machinery which would keep the bell tolling while the hearse and carriages were winding up the snow-covered slope leading to the archway. This machinery is automatic and will run until the bell has tolled eight times.

This done, the bellman waited the approach of the funeral train, just as he had done thousands of times before. He had waited the passage of modest processions, where there were but one or two or three carriages besides the hearse, and he had waited the arrival of almost endless corteges of seventy or eighty carriages. People of every age and condition have in his day been carried to their last resting place from the humblest children to men of wealth, distinction and national fame. He has tolled the bell announcing the arrival of such distinguished dead as S. S. Cox, James Gordon Bennett, Maj.-Gen. Halleck, Gen. Thomas C. Dakin and Gordon W. Burnham.

When a funeral procession reaches the entrance it is the bellman's duty to announce at the office the name of the undertaker having it in charge. He rarely has to stop to inquire, for he knows nearly every undertaker in New York, Brooklyn, Jersey City, Hoboken, and also many on Staten Island and many of the towns on Long Island. It is only when a procession comes from some distance that the bellman cannot call the undertaker by name.

When the procession yesterday had come near enough so that he could see the undertaker he strode into the office, and, addressing one of the clerks at the desk, said simply:

"Henderson."

"William Daly," was the reply.

That meant that William Daly was the gravedigger who had charge of digging the grave for the body that had now arrived. The bellman received the announcement, strode out of the office and then ran at a kind of wallowing gait for a hundred yards and called out Daly's name to Foreman Timothy Kaneflick of the gravediggers. Kaneflick spoke to Daly, and soon he in company with three other men armed with shovels was following in the wake of the funeral procession, which was now winding slowly along Landscape avenue.

From this time on the bell was tolling most of the time for an hour. Procession after procession wound up the snow-covered slope until it seemed almost as though they made an endless cortege In each case the undertaker's face was familiar to the bellman, and each time he went through the routine of announcing his name and summoning the gravedigger.

Patrick is as uncommunicative as he is faithful. There is not a suggestion of romance in his makeup. So long as the funerals come and go according to rule, and the bell tolls and the gravediggers go about their duty, he is satisfied.

"I don't have much time except to attend to the funerals," he said. "I see them come and go, and that is about all I know about them."

The only thing he seemed to remember that was at all out of the usual routine was the blizzard. "That was a bad time, indeed," he said. "It was the only day I know of when there wasn't so much as one funeral come into the cemetery. The snow was so deep that they couldn't get here. The next day one came in and the hearse got to the tomb, but the carriages had to stop just after they had got through the gate. I remember that time that the snow was two or three feet on the level and that it was piled up in drifts here and there ten or twelve feet high."

"And you were here through it all?"

"Oh, yes; trust me to be here. But it was a pretty tough time. And, to think of it, not a single funeral one whole day!"

Coins of Brass and Tin.

When England was being made into mincemeat and blocks of real estate by the Saxons and Danes, silver and brass were in use as currency, but the Normans subsequently installed the aristocratic metal and left the democratic brass to take care of itself. Gold was first coined by Henry III., and copper made into British coin in 1672. Tin was used for coinage in 1680, and the national farthing was made of this Cambrian product with a stud of copper let in the center. In 1690 and 1691 tin half-pence were issued in considerable quantities. The only pure gold coins issued in English history were those of Henry III.

A Lost Art.

Line engraving has become one of the lost arts. In this utilitarian age when "time is money" no line engraver could spend long years in learning his profession and then devote four, five or six years to the engraving of a single plate after some famous picture when that picture could be photographed in the

MISCELLANEOUS.

Pimples.

The old idea was that facial eruptions were due to a "blood humor," for which they gave potash. Thus the old Sarsaparillas contain potash, a drastic mineral, that instead of decreasing, actually creates more eruptions. You have noticed this when taking other Sarsaparillas. It is however now known that the stomach, the blood creating power, is the seat of all vitiating or cleansing operations. A stomach clogged by indigestion or constipation, vitiates the blood, result pimples. A clean stomach and healthful digestion purifies it and they disappear. Thus Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla is compounded after the modern idea to regulate the bowels and stimulate the digestion. The effect is immediate. A short testimonial to contrast the action of the potash Sarsaparillas and Joy's. Mrs. C. D. Stuart, of 400 Hayes St., S. F., writes: "I have for years had indigestion. I tried a popular Sarsaparilla but it actually caused more pimples to break out on my face. Hearing that Joy's was a later preparation and acted differently, I tried it and the pimples immediately disappeared."

Pure Blood

Is absolutely necessary in order to have perfect health. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the great blood purifier, quickly conquering scrofula, salt rheum, and all other insidious enemies which attack the blood and undermine the health. It also builds up the whole system, cures dyspepsia and sick headache, and overcomes that tired feeling.

Scrofula Sores.

"My adopted boy, aged 14 years, suffered terribly from scrofula sores on his leg, which spread till they at one time formed one great sore from the calf of his leg up to his thigh, partially covered with scab, and discharging matter continually. The muscles became contracted so that his leg was drawn up and he could hardly walk. We tried everything we could hear of, without success, until we began giving him Hood's Sarsaparilla. In just a month, after he had taken two-thirds of a bottle, the sores entirely healed, his leg is perfectly straight, and he

Can Walk as Well as Ever.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best medicine I ever saw for scrofulous humor. It has done its work more than satisfactorily." WILLIAM SANDERS, Rockdale, Milam County, Texas.

The reports of the officers and various committees were received and read. One dollar per capita tax for the ensuing year was levied.

An invitation was here tendered through Representative Aitken from Amity Lodge No. 8, to the members of the Grand Lodge and all visiting Knights to meet them at 8 o'clock in the Castle Hall to witness the work in conferring the Third Rank and afterward partake of a banquet. The invitation was duly accepted, and the Grand Lodge adjourned until 9 o'clock this morning.

Amity Lodge No. 8, K. of P., won honors for hospitality and good fellowship for the manner in which it entained the members of the Grand Lodge and visiting Knights, at the banquet spread in their Castle Hall last evening. The banquet followed the close of the Lodge work, which occupied the time until 10:30 o'clock P. M. The work consisted of the usual routine, after which the Amplified Third was conferred in a spirited and impressive manner, and won warm words of praise from visiting Knights for the prompt and correct manner in which it was done. The working Knights looked remarkably fine in their handsome new regalia, which gave the Castle Hall an air of the chivalrous days of old; and the work was done with a promptness that won for them rounds of applause at its conclusion. An adjournment was then taken to the banquet hall, where about seventy Knights were soon seated around the tables that were loaded with choice viands and edibles prepared by the Ladies Relief Corps, with their well known skill. The service at the tables was of necessity performed by Knights of Amity Lodge, who exerted themselves in serving every one well and in extending the hospitalities with a freedom that placed every one at ease. After ample justice to the viands and due respect to the wines, words of wit and wisdom flowed freely and added to the enjoyment of the evening. Supreme Representative C. C. Powning delivered in an eloquent and effective manner an address of welcome to the visiting Knights. Supreme M. of A. George H. Morrison responded to the toast "The Supreme Grand Lodge" and held the close attention of all throughout his eloquent recital. In view of the fact that he will probably be advanced to higher honors at the next convention of the Supreme Lodge of the World, the GAZETTE gives on this page an excellent picture of this now well known Knight, who has so ably represented the jurisdiction of Nevada in the Supreme Grand Lodge.

B. F. Curler, Grand Chancellor, replied to the toast "The Grand Lodge" and was listened to with rapt attention.

J. E. Bray gave an eloquent response to the toast "The Endowment Rank," and Representative McMillen answered the toast "The Uniform Rank." Other addresses were made by Dr. Bergstein, W. W. Rogers, B. F. Curler, N. A. Hummel. J. A. Conboie and other Knights, and the time was pleasantly passed until 12:30 A. M. when the banquet was closed and the Knights adjourned. All expressed themselves as highly pleased with the hospitalities extended by the Knights of Amity Lodge No. 8 and all seemed to feel an increased pride in the Order which is spreading its beneficent influence over the world.

TO-DAY'S SESSION.

At the session of the Grand Lodge of the K. of P. to-day the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Supreme Representative, W. H. M. Cobb of Lyon No. 12, Dayton; Grand Chancellor, George J. D. King of Nevada No. 1, Virginia; Grand Vice-Chancellor, T. R. Hofer of Carson No. 4; Grand Prelate, W. S. Beard of Beatific No. 7, Eureka; Grand Master of Exchequer, George W. Hatch of Triumph No. 11, Virginia; Grand Keeper of Records and Seal, A. B. Stoddard of Nevada No. 1, Virginia; Grand Master-at-Arms, J. F. Aitken of Amity No. 8, Reno; Grand Inner Guard, A. Steel of Pyramid No. 19, Wadsworth; Grand Outer Guard, O. A. Brooks of Lyon No. 12, Dayton; Grand Trustees, E. James of Carson, S. J. Hodgkinson of Reno, J. H. McBride of Hawthorne.

At the session this afternoon Carson was selected as the place of holding the next meeting of the Grand Lodge.

MR. NEWLANDS INTERVIEWED.

What He Thinks of the Outlook for Nevada, its University and the Silver Question.

"Well, how does the State look to you since your return from the busy east?" inquired a GAZETTE reporter of the Hon. Francis G. Newlands last evening.

"I think," replied Mr. Newlands, "the State has seen its worst days. I believe it will steadily advance from this time. Our ranges are covered with grass, which for the first time in years has had a chance to go to seed. The ranges will be re-stocked before long and more rational methods of raising cattle, involving less expense, will be adopted. Our valleys will be filled with alfalfa fields, and these will supplement the natural pastures and furnish more feed for raising stock."

"What do you think is the most essential thing to the future prosperity of the State, Mr. Newlands?" asked the GAZETTE man.

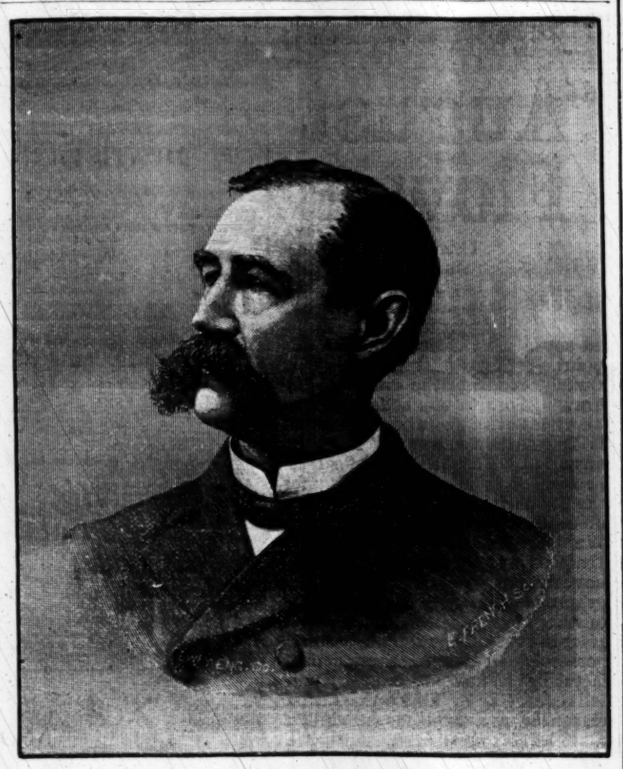

"The formation of irrigation districts on all the four rivers of the State, that is the Walker, Humboldt, Carson and Truckee, and the steady development of storage" replied the speaker earnestly.

"But how about an over production of good things that Nevada's prolific soil will raise when the State becomes populous and the lands are put to a higher use?"

"You may put the land to the highest possible use and then multiply its products by two and there is no danger of an over production. Why, you might as well say that this world was dependent upon some other planet as to argue that our State must be dependent upon another for its existence in this great universe. Every producer brings a consumer and sometimes three or four, so it is idle to talk of an over production."

"By the way, Mr. Newlands, you paid a visit to the University this morning did you not?"

"Yes, I did, and I think it a very creditable institution. It is gratifying to see the way in which the new members of the the Board of Regents, Governor Colcord, Attorney-General Torreyson and Mr. Haines, are taking hold of their duties. I believe Gov. Colcord is giving more attention to State institutions than any Governor the State has had. He is clear headed, business-like, frank and decided and will tolerate no abuses.

George H. Morrison, S. M. of A. of the Supreme Lodge of the World, K. of P.

I was much interested in the information I received concerning the University and the working of its various departments. I see no reason why it should not become a most useful institution to the State, and I have a suggestion to make which I think will increase its utility.

"In a State so young as Nevada the education of its University should always have in view practical results in the way of developing the State. I am glad to find there is a department of agriculture connected with the University, sustained by a liberal appropriation of $15,000 per annum by the general government. Connected with this department at present are two professors, one being a chemist in whose department comes the examination of soils, the other being in charge of the Experimental Station. Much good work is doubtless being done by both.

"I would suggest as the utmost importance to this State that the chair of irrigation engineering should also be established, and that some man who unites thorough education in engineering with the practical knowledge of irrigation should be invited to its chair. There could be no better place for object lessons in this department than at Reno; and from this University would go every year a number of young men who would have received practical as well as theoretical training in a matter of the greatest importance to the State. It is impossible to conceive how dense the ignorance upon this subject has been throughout this State, even in communities themselves practicing irrigation. Competent engineers who have come from other communities at my instance to make investigation here, declare that the work is exceedingly crude, and that the waste of water is immense. There should be such a department of irrigation in this State as to insure the beneficial use of every drop of water that is diverted.

"Is there any one you would recommend for that position?"

"In making a selection of this chair, I would not think it advisable to go out of the State; I believe that we have in our midst a gentleman who is eminently qualified for the position, Mr. Irish, the late Surveyor General; a man who overflows with information of every kind; an enthusiast in seeking knowledge, always ready to impart it, and besides having had a practical experience in irrigation not only here but in Mexico and Colorado.

"The advantages of having such a chair would not be confined simply to the instruction of the youth in the university; such a man would be, in a measure, a State officer; it would be his business to collect data with reference to the source of water supply throughout the State, and to put himself in communication with the various irrigation districts which would doubtless soon be formed.

"This department would be the means of centralizing all the information on the subject in the State. Its head could devise inexpensive methods of measuring the waters of the various streams, keeping the statistics so as to ascertain their average capability for supplying arid lands with water. He could enlist in such work farmers living along the river banks, and would instruct them as to the simple methods of measurement.

"But whether the incumbent of the chair be taken from our State or not, the department it seems to me, should be provided for, and that, too, very speedily. I have no doubt that it will eventually develope into the establishment by the State of an Irrigation Bureau in connection with our State University."

"When do you expect to return to Nevada?" inquired the reported.

"Early in September; I am hurrying off now to attend a meeting of the National Silver Committee, which meets in Washington on the 18th."

"What do you think of the outlook for silver?"

"I think it is good, very good. The gold men are making a harder fight than they ever made before, however; they are publishing and distributing gratuitiously two papers, whose columns are entirely devoted to what they call the honest dollar, and are disseminating pamphlets all over the country, and in fact leaving no stone unturned to make a winning fight, but I think the outlook is exceedingly bright for the white metal, notwithstanding the vigorous warfare being made against it."

Sleeping Car Service.

The Pullman sleeping car Fresno was attached to the V. & T. passenger train this morning, being taken up to Virginia City to have in readiness for its first regular trip through to San Francisco on to-morrow evening, at which time another will also be dispatched from San Francisco for Virginia City, each to be run daily thereafter.

Nevada Horses for San Francisco.

A. F. Rooker, manager of the Nevada Horse Market of San Francisco, is in town and has bought four carloads of horses that he has picked up for the bay market.

Escape of Prisoners.

The report that prisoners have been and are constantly escaping from that malignant gaoler, liver complaint, is fully corroborated by the self-liberated captives. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are, they say, the means by which they get rid of their fetters, few altogether avoid the bondage of this ailment, and few are unacquainted with its signs, viz.: pain through the right side and shoulder blade, furred tongue, and yellowness of the eyeballs and skin, sour breath, sick headache, dyspepsia and consumption. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters puts a prompt period to these, brings them to a full stop in short order. Whether the trouble is chronic or temporary, this medicine is equally effective, regulating the liver and bowels thoroughly. It is likewise a sovereign remedy for rheumatism, kidney complaint, malaria, heartburn and nervousness.

Accommodating the boys.—"I see they talk of shortening the college course." "Do they? Too much for the boys, eh? What are they going to make it—a half-mile or three-quarters?" And he stopped to inspect the stock of neckties, scarfs and four-in-hands at John Sunderlands.

A lively shower of rain fell this morning about 9:15 o'clock, at which time the dark clouds hung black and heavy over the valley; but in less than half an hour they rolled by and the sun shone brightly, and continuing through the day shade and sunshine alternated like unto April weather.

A Beknighted Knight.

Two visiting Knights from Carson occupied a room together at the Riverside Hotel last night. After the banquet they retired in a sleepy mood, and failed to turn off the incandescent light. About 3 o'clock this morning the one was awakened by the other, who was balanced on a chair trying to blow out the lamp. It seems incredible, but Hume says Tim was in it.

A Common Sense Remedy.

In the matter of curatives what you want is something that will do its work while you continue to do yours—a remedy that will give you no inconvenience nor interfere with your business. Such a remedy is Allcock's Porous Plasters. These Plasters are not an experiment, they have been in use for over thirty years, and their value has been attested by the highest medical authorities, as well as by voluntary testimonials from those who have used them.

Allcock's Porous Plasters are purely vegetable and absolutely harmless. They require no change of diet and are not affected by wet or cold. Their action does not interfere with labor or business; you can toil and yet be cured while hard at work. They are so pure that the youngest, the oldest and most delicate person of either sex can use them with great benefit,

A RACE OF WILD DOGS.

They Roam Arkansas and Resemble the Tame Species.

The Animals Said to Have Frequented a Certain Locality for Twenty-Five Years—Some of Their Queer Characteristics.

The discovery has recently been made that a species of wild dogs exists in this country, writes a Eureka Springs (Ark.) correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. The fact that they have been here for more than a quarter of a century has been known to some of the old citizens, who seem to have thought the matter of small importance, and consequently a valuable contribution to science and history is yet to be published. Mr. Jacob Everman, a citizen of this town, is the first man to investigate the matter and establish the fact that these dogs are unlike any breed of dogs known in this country. Everman is an old woodsman and hunter and keeps a pack of as fine foxhounds as ever "gave music to the hunter's horn." One morning recently he went into the woods alone, and his dogs not scenting a trail in the locality where foxes have always seemed plentiful, he extended the hunt several miles further into the mountains than usual. When he reached the headwaters of Clifty, in what is known as Panther canyon, he heard the dogs baying at something in the distance, and, hurrying up to them, at the root of a large black oak tree he saw what he supposed to be a black wolf snarling and snapping at them furiously, but as soon as it saw him it wheeled and ran off at great speed. He discovered that it was not a wolf, but a dog of some kind. He hissed and urged the dogs to give it chase, and they started in pursuit, but, he thought, rather reluctantly, and returned after following a short distance. Looking into the hollow of the tree, he found four small pups, probably about two weeks old, which the mother had been defending so savagely.

Having no means of taking them with him, he returned the next day prepared to carry them home, but when he went to the tree again they were gone. After considerable hunting his dogs found them secreted in a tree some three hundred yards from the hollow tree. He brought them home, and they are growing finely under domestic care. These young dogs are black, the hair being finer and more resembling fur than that of the tame dog, and their feet are like the feet of a cat; their toe-nails turn under and are longer and sharper than those of the domesticated dog.

Since the capture of these puppies some of the old mountaineers who lived here in ante-bellum days have been telling what they know concerning these wild dogs, and from the best authenticated accounts Everman can gather they now number as many as twenty and probably more, and are frequently seen, but seldom more than three or four together. There is a tradition that there were wild dogs in this vicinity when the earliest white settlers came here, but whether they were left by the original occupants of the country or were as distinct a wild species as those found in South America, Australia and the countries of the far east no one pretends to explain.

The country in which these dogs are found is one of the most inaccessible regions in the state. It abounds in high mountains, deep gulches and dense thicket and is seldom visited, and those who do visit it are hunters and farmers who have stock to stray into it. The dogs have seldom been seen out of this particular locality in the daytime, but it is known that in late years they come into the settlements at night and commit great depredations by killing the sheep, hogs and other small animals belonging to the farmers. Several have been killed from time to time by hunters. Only on one occasion have they been known to attack man. Many have mistaken them for wolves, but the experienced woodsmen have always contended that they were not wolves. They are invariably black, and a black wolf is a rarity in this part of the country. Then they are not so large as the timber wolves, and do not seem so active in their movements. They have never been known to howl or make much demonstration by barking. It is said that when discovered in some dense thicket they usually utter a kind of terrified bark and make off at great speed. They show no inclination to affiliate with the domestic dogs, and will fight them with great courage. They are of medium size, having rather small heads, with small pointed ears, slender limbs and long, bushy tails. In some respects they look as though they might be allied to the Esquimau dog, except that their hair is not so long and the nose not so small and fox-like. Then there is another peculiar feature about these dogs. They carry their tails in a horizontal position like the fox, while the Esquimau dog carries his caudal appendage in a short curve.

The Grip in Japan.

One remarkable peculiarity of the grip in Japan was its prevalence among the upper classes, whereas the cholera selected its victims among the poorer people. Some idea of the extent of the epidemic may be gathered from the fact that, at Yokohama, the sufferers officially reported numbered over fifty thousand, and it is estimated that the unreported cases throughout the prefecture were nearly twice as great. Of the one hundred and thirty thousand inhabitants of Kobe, twenty-five thousand were attacked by the disease. In Tokio the epidemic raged with great virulence, and similar reports come from some of the Chinese cities.

The Crime of "Hoodling."

"Hoodling," says a dispatch from Washington, is a word which has been coined in the post office department. The letter carriers of the country are suspected of "hoodling." To "hoodle" is to take more time in delivering or collecting letters than is absolutely necessary. The postmaster general and the superintendent of the free delivery service have held several conferences to consider plans for the prevention of "hoodling." The superintendent says he has investigated enough to satisfy him that the evil has assumed serious proportions.

Odd Religions in Russia.

Russia has of late harbored more eccentric and mysterious religious sects than any other country under the sun. One of these has for some months past created great perturbation in the province of Vezin. This new creed, the members of which are called "sharers," or "shearers," is extraordinary to an incredible extent. The inhabitants of all the villages in the province above mentioned discover in the morning, one after the other, that their fowls have been plucked of their feathers, their sheep shorn of their wool and the horses of their mains and tails, and that the feathers, wool and hair thus obtained have been burned as a sacrifice to some unknown divinity. The peasants are terrified at the depredations of the "shearers," who are, they believe, inspired by an evil spirit, and complaints are being sent by them to the authorities. The delinquents, however, are so careful to avoid detection that up to this day it has been impossible to catch any of them in the act.

She Sheds Her Bones.

A woman seventy-one years of age, who has twice expoliated or shed many of the bones from her body, and had new and sound ones grow in their stead, has, through the mediumship of Dr. Bell, of Parrottsville, Tenn., set the East Tennessee Medical society guessing as to how and why she does it. She is Miss Sarah Lees, of Coney's Branch, Tenn., and there is abundant proof that she has shed and gives as souvenirs to friends one hundred pieces of bone. This expoliation, says the Philadelphia Record, marvelous as it may seem, has included the shedding twice of Miss Lees' entire jaw-bone, yet all the teeth but two in her new jaw are intact. During the last twenty-one years she has shed twice, in addition to the jaw, the bones of the hand and forearm, arm and shoulder-blade, and this without leaving any deformity and without suppuration and with entire consciousness of the change on the aged patient's part. Her health is good.

A Blade of Grass.

At a meeting of the Asiatic society of Bengal, at Calcutta, a piece of cable was exhibited, showing that the india-rubber covering had been pierced by a blade of grass. The piercing was so complete and the contact with the copper core so perfect that "dead earth," as it is technically called, was produced and the efficiency of the cable destroyed. The species of the grass, owing to its dried-up condition, could not be determined.

"August Flower"

What Is It For?

This is the query perpetually on your little boy's lips. And he is no worse than the bigger, older, balder-headed boys. Life is an interrogation point. "What is it for?" we continually cry from the cradle to the grave. So with this little introductory sermon we turn and ask: "What is AUGUST FLOWER FOR?" As easily answered as asked: It is for Dyspepsia. It is a special remedy for the Stomach and Liver. Nothing more than this; but this brimful. We believe August Flower cures Dyspepsia. We know it will. We have reasons for knowing it. Twenty years ago it started in a small country town. To-day it has an honored place in every city and country store, possesses one of the largest manufacturing plants in the country and sells everywhere. Why is this? The reason is as simple as a child's thought. It is honest, does one thing, and does it right along—it cures Dyspepsia. ㉔
